Oxford County Farm Bureau Plans Year at Annual Meeting

The Oxford County Farm Bureau Annual Meeting was held at the Norway Opera House, Nov. 3. The meeting was opened by President Gerald H. Bessey of Buckfield. Secretary Harriet Harris of Brownfield read the minutes of last year's annual meeting. William Chapman, Executive Committee member from Bethel, read the Treasurer's report and presented the budget for 1950.

1949 accomplishments were reported by committee members. Reporting for Agriculture, William Chapman said, "To date this year, some 465 people have called on the county agent in the office. In their turn the county agents have called on 514 people in connection with the work in the county."

One of the ways to contact a large number of people is to hold a meeting. This past year, the county agent has held or attended 141 meetings at which a total of 10,345 people attended.

These figures include some of the year's highlights. The Grasslands Field Days were in this group. Held to acquaint the farmer with modern machinery of various kinds actually working in the field, thousands of Maine farmers attended. Previous to the actual demonstration, much organizational work had to be done to line up dealers, machinery, programs, a place to hold the demonstration, and many other details. With farmers and dealers cooperating, the Extension Service put on the demonstration.

In cooperation with the state dairy department, the dairy show at Windsor was held, bigger than ever before. County Agent Leonard assisted in preparations before and during the event, while County Agent at Large, Jaeger, acted as production judge.

A series of meetings on electricity was held throughout the county. These were on a community basis with both men and women attending. They resulted in at least one town house being completely rewired.

Although some men have been growing them for years, a comparatively new Oxford county crop is blueberries. Work has been done around the county and especially in the Brownfield area on this crop which should bring in over $60,000 of additional revenue when the crop is developed. Frost damage hurt the crop this year, but at least one grower is planning to put in an irrigation equipment and will spray the plants when in danger of a frost.

Green pastures were emphasized in the dairy enterprise. Phil Andrews pasture in Fryeburg placed high in state and New England judging.

Work with the DHIA and Maine Cooperative Breeding Association continued as usual.

Emphasis was placed on project leader meetings which were successful enough to warrant plans for placing still more emphasis on them during the coming year.

Mrs. Vera Emerson of Norway reported for Home Economics and J. C. Conant of Canton reported on 4-H clubs.

County Agent at Large, Gilbert Jaeger, Home Demonstration Agent Ann Harmon, and Club Agent Robert MacLaughlin, discussed the 1950 program which is as follows:

Agriculture

A record may have been discovered by Fritz Tyler in checking the number of couples in town who have been married 50 years or more. His list includes 14, running up to 58 years, with several more in town who will reach the half century during the next few months. It will be noted that with the exception of two couples, all live in Bethel Village, making 12 couples in a community of about 1,000 with an average of 53 years of wedded life. MANY GIFTS OFFERED AT ANNUAL CHRISTMAS FAIR ON THURSDAY, NOV. 17

The ladies of the Methodist Church are offering you a wonderful chance to do much of your Christmas shopping early this year. They have been working diligently to prepare hundreds of beautiful handmade articles which will go on sale next Thursday, Nov. 17, at 2:30 P. M.

Special features include the Dressmakers' Corner at the Home-makers' table (bargains in buttons, thread, cloth, and ribbons), "gifts for the new arrival" at the Children's table and novel lamp ornaments and Christmas decorations at the Greens table.

In addition to these attractions, there will be many lovely gifts at the fancy work, apron, and handkerchief tables, delicious homemade candies offered by the Eleanor Gordon Guild—plus their usual assortment of cards, stationery, and gift wrappings.

The food table will have an abundance of all kinds of home-cooked food—just the place to buy some rolls and cake to help solve your supper problem after an afternoon of shopping.

Santa has sent many parcels to the Bethel Branch of his Northland Post Office for all children who wish to call for mail. We find he has included packages for grown-ups also.

After your shopping spree there will be an opportunity to enjoy a rest and pleasant chat over a cup of tea at the luncheon corner.

GOULD PLOWS UNDER FRYEBURG, 25-0

Gould Academy finished its second undefeated season in a row by downing their arch-rivals, Fryeburg Academy, 25-0. It was a bitter and hard fought battle all the way with Fryeburg having the best of it during the first period until the very last play when Marshall broke away for a 71 yd. dash that was a beauty, and carried to the nine yard line. On the first play of the second period Smith scampered nine yards to register the first score of the game. Hamilton converted the extra point and the Huskies led 7 to 0. Gould continued to find the going tough the rest of the half as the Fryeburg line out-fought the "Blue and Gold."

The second half was another story and the winners finished their last game playing excellent ball while Fryeburg was beginning to tire. Marshall ripped off 21 yards and then 9 yards to set up the second TD which he scored finally from the three yard line. The third TD came early in the final stanza and was set-up by a nice run by Smith for 25 yards, leading off his own right end. Bean covered the remaining eight yards for the score.

Smith scored the final counter from the one yard line, Marshall's 16 yard run helped place the ball in scoring position.

Both Smith and Marshall finished their scholastic football careers playing great ball. In the line Hamilton and Bennett did excellent work for the winners. Toppoteh performances were given, too, by Fryeburg's William and McManus, the latter literally playing himself out as he had to be taken from the field late in the final period.

WATER COMPANY SEEKS TO UP METER-HYDRANT RATE

The Bethel Water Company has applied to the Public Utilities Commission for permission to increase its rates for hydrant and meter service and flat rates for golf club and schools. The petition seeks to double the hydrant rate with lesser increases for other services. The company does not seek a change in the household flat rate.

The hydrant rate has remained unchanged since first established nearly 60 years ago, and other rates been the same for 20 years or more.

TEACHERS CLUB DECIDES TO CHANGE RANKING PRACTICE

The Five Town Teachers Club met Monday evening at the Primary School building. The present ranking system was discussed.

Many parents have felt that reports sent home the past two years have not shown clearly the progress of the child. It was decided for a year's trial to send the present card twice a year and a letter to parents showing what the pupil is doing for the other two ranking periods. This will be augmented by conferences whereby parents and teachers may discuss any problems arising. This will be carried out from grades four to eight. Grades two and three will have letters only also augmented by conferences.

"January Thaw," based on the novel of the same name by Belamy Partridge, first presented at the Golden Theatre, New York City, on February 5, 1946, was enthusiastically acclaimed by critics and had a long and highly successful run.

Action starts in the living room of an old house in Connecticut, which the Gage family after moving to in search of peace, has restored to its colonial state.

There, Mother remodels coffee-grinders into lamps, while Father tries to write a "best seller" novel in a blitz of interruptions instead of in that country quiet he sought. In the blitz, he ignores the arrival of Jonathan and Mathilda, who have the right to live in the Gage home. No one was worried about that clause in the deed, since the Rockwoods were supposed to be dead. A contest for possession begins, with neither able to turn the other out.

The hectic battle for tenancy stretches from June until the following January. Complications, bordering on the tragic but with the ludicrous predominating, provide both laughter and thrills before a happy and intelligent solution is worked out.

Cultivate Memory for Faces

IF YOU HAVE A GOOD MEMORY, particularly for faces and names, you are fortunate. If you haven't and are contemplating dealing with the public in your life work, it is almost essential to your success that you cultivate your memory.

CARNegie

True, there are people who have been successful whose memories have been poor indeed. I can list Emile Zola, the writer, whose memory failed him regularly; Thomas A. Edison could not rely upon his memory, nor could Sir Walter Scott. They were not only eminently successful, they were famous, and their works are now classics. But note the work they were in: the first two dealt with the public through the printed page, and Mr. Edison worked in his laboratory most of the time in solitude. But even these men would have added to their lives much in the way of satisfaction had their memories served them well.

I once interviewed that famous Scotsman whose name is connected with the public library of practically every city and town of any size in the United States. I asked him if he thought a good memory very important for a business man. That today sounds like foolish question No. 1, but remember I hadn't had much experience then.

He looked in the distance thoughtfully then he said, "I failed to get a job once as a boy because I failed to recognize my hoped-for employer the second time I saw him, and this shortly after I had had a very encouraging interview with him."

Here are some essentials for remembering faces and names. Study them, memorize them and practice them. If you do, you will be benefitted more than you can now realize. If you don't, well then don't hope for top success in your work you deal with people.

Attention: Look at a man closely when you are introduced. If you don't hear his name distinctly, say "I beg your pardon, I didn't get your name." That to begin with will please him; he will know that he is of enough importance to you that you want to know his name.

Repetition: After you have left that man's company, go back to him in your mind, note his features, his facial expressions, and what he talked about. Do this several times. You will then remember him for all time. Do it again the next day. And the next.

Association: Associate the man with something you discussed. Recall what he said, whether he had definite opinions on any subject. Go over, repeat this the next day.

Follow these rules in connection with everyone you meet, if possible. Some of these days it is going to be a tremendous advantage to you, and on any day it will be a source of satisfaction that you have mastered the art of remembering.

ECONOMIC HIGHLIGHTS

Happenings That Affect the Dinner Pails, Dividend Checks and Tax Bills of Every Individual—National and International Problems Inseparable from Local Welfare

"The Russian spirit consists in hatred of the individual and his absorption into the state to the advantage of despotism, as a regime, is a prerequisite to the establishment of world dominion. Unless we stand on guard we shall witness the infallible success of a man who will appear and summon the peoples of Europe to rise in the name of equality; who will offer to the masses protection against their own unruly natures and an equal turn at the common soup ladle."

Does that sound as if it had been written yesterday? It could have been, but it wasn't. It was penned about a hundred years ago by a Russian observer named Emil Montegut.

Here is still another quotation: "The more I see of Russia the more I approve of the czar's forbidding Russians to travel abroad and making access to Russia difficult for foreigners. The Russian political system could not stand out for 20 years against communication between Russia and the West."

This too was written a century ago, by a French diplomat named the Marquis de Custine. Change the single word "czar" to "Stalin" and you will have an observation that might have been made by any number of present-day commentators.

These, with other quotations from long dead observers of the Russian scene, appear in an article in Foreign Affairs by Lewis Galantiere. Mr. Galantiere uses them to support an interesting and credible thesis—that the Russian mind has changed little if at all in a century or more, and that dictatorship, whether it be exerted by an emperor or the Politburo, comes naturally to it. Dorothy Thompson expressed this idea cogently when she wrote: "It is therefore nothing new with which we have to deal today. It is only the old Russia with a new look."

However, the changes that history has brought have made the Russian outlook on the world infinitely more important to the other powers that it used to be. Swift transportation and communication have shrunk the planet. Ghastly new weapons have been devised and are ready for use. According to the scientists and global military planners, it will soon be possible to wage intercontinental warfare with rockets and guided missiles and pilotless aircraft. A U. S. News article says, "At this time, all but three major U. S. cities lie within the range of suicide bombers from Russia." And Russia has an A-bomb.

In any event, the Russian mind has always been a mystery to the West, made up as it is of a strange mixture of European and Asiatic influences. How to deal with it remains the greatest world problem of the age.

Heating equipment should be checked carefully at regular intervals to prevent needless fires and injuries. This is especially important in Maine where heating equipment is used so much of the year.

A Wonderful Country!A COMPETITOR'S OPINION of The Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co.

The self-styled "trust busters" of the government recently made headlines as a result of a move to destroy the A&P.

Frankly, we don't like it. A&P is charged with having control of SOME of the production and processing ends of the food business. As a result, they can offer foods at low prices.

So What... And if monopoly of the food business is charged, that sure hands us a luff. We... at P.P.M. are growing like wildfire. Seems like we're able to sell better foods at better prices.

Your increasing patronage of our stores is positive proof that A&P has no monopoly on the food business. Let's get down to good old American horse sense. A&P is doing a good job of serving the people of this country. They're no bogey men. We are for them 100% in this controversy.

William F. Britton, Pres.

PROVIDENCE PUBLIC MARKETS
PROVIDENCE, RHODE ISLAND

WHY ARE THEY MONKEYING WITH THE A&P?

In all sincerity, we wish to go on record as standing squarely in back of a leading competitor now fighting a battle for its very existence.

For what it's worth, we offer our moral support to the Great Atlantic and Pacific Tea Company, target of a federal government action aimed at destroying this firm.

The anti-trust authorities want A&P broken up on the grounds that it controls certain phases of production and processing in the food industry.

We see no crime in this. A&P is one of the leaders in holding food costs down and rival suppliers, INCLUDING OURS, are compelled to meet their competition. This means we can buy at lower prices and sell to our customers at lower prices.

Because we are first and foremost concerned with giving our customers the most for their food dollar, we regard this threat to the A&P as a threat to us.

We are opposed to all efforts, by government or any other group, toward destruction of a competitive system of business enterprise.

WAYNE PUBLIC MARKET

I Welcome A&P Competition BECAUSE

... like myself, many hundreds of independent grocers got their start with the TEA COMPANY.

... The great A&P is not detrimental to the progress of the grocery business. On the contrary, A&P has always been beneficial to any open-minded businessman who believes in FREE ENTERPRISE. Founded on the principle of FAIR PLAY and FAIR PRICES, A&P developed from a humble start to its present commanding position in the field of retail merchandising.

... My experience as a former employee of the TEA COMPANY has served me well. I attribute my success to the ideas and methods tried, tested and proven by the A&P stores—at a great cost.

... A&P upholds the rights and privileges of a good worker. I know this from personal experience. A&P is ever on the lookout to promote sincere and ambitious employees to trustworthy and important positions and has never crossed the efforts of any employee to enter into business for himself. A&P helped me to start in business... IS THAT BUSINESS? NO!

A&P taught me to serve the public BETTER—MORE ECONOMICAL and MORE EFFICIENT, thanks to the start given me by B. F. VINSON.

... During the depression of the thirties, A&P paid higher wages than any other chain. A&P has striven to think what would happen to its 110,000 employees if it was forced out of business.

... I am not afraid of A&P competition—I welcome it. It's democratic—it's the American Way.

We Agree With A&P

Yes, we want our A&P competitors to stay in business on their present scale because we know what it would mean to the American people without them.

We are only one store and are striving to serve our community with good food at low prices, but the A&P is a nationwide organization serving the American people everywhere with good food at low prices.

Destroying the A&P would mean eliminating competition nationally in the food field which every poor man knows consumes the major portion of his salary.

We congratulate the A&P for a job well done. Keep up the fight. We welcome any fair competition which helps to bring lower food prices to the consumer.

We Don't Want the A&P Put Out of Business

The owner of the undersigned store is an independent merchant in this community. We run our own store, set our own prices, maintain our own policy.

We consider the Great Atlantic & Pacific Tea Co. as a chain store. Because they are a chain they give us stiff competition.

The competition offered by the A&P keeps us on our toes.

The Department of Justice has brought a suit against the A&P claiming that the A&P is a monopoly.

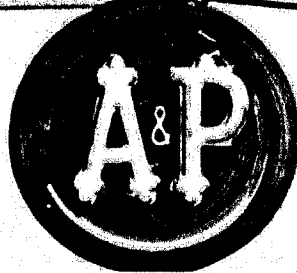

Whether it is or not we are in no position to judge.

What we do know is that the A&P doesn't do all of the grocery business in this area. We are here and ready to serve local customers.

WE DON'T WANT TO SEE THE A&P PUT OUT OF BUSINESS.

The A&P is keeping food prices down. We in turn keep our prices down; and that helps us to sell more goods.
